

Issue Staff:

Editor-in-Chief: Kent Roberts
Director, Re-Reconsiderations: Kent Roberts
VP, Gut-Checks & Imbalances: Kent Roberts
Outgoing Manager of Stepping Aside When Someone is in a Hurry: Kent Roberts
Incoming Manager of Stepping Aside When Someone is in a Hurry: Kent Roberts

Kent

Old Friends Issue
Jan. 2020 #1 / Volume 18, Issue 1

Kenternet: TGIKent.com
Letters to the editor and no-thank-you notes: tgikent@gmail.com
Kent HQ: 3724 47th Ave. S., Minneapolis, MN 55406 (New PO Box is in the works.)
Handshakes: Behind-the-back preferred.

 a publication by and about Kent Roberts, and for the global community ***

Self-publisher decides to make another one

By Kent Roberts

Self-publisher Kent Roberts decided today to make another issue of his publication Kent.

"It's been a while," said Kent Manager of Scheduling (KMS) Kent Roberts. "I sort of put out some issues from March to June, a string of really depressing issues. I'm not sure if they were real issues. I didn't make any paper copies. I just put them online. I was processing something. F--- those issues."

It is the general opinion around Kent HQ that the issues published

"We're getting things back on track here."
– Kent Roberts

between March and May 2019 are illegitimate.

"The inmates were running the asylum at that point," said Kent Amateur Psychiatric Self-Nurse (KAPSN) Kent Roberts. "It wasn't pretty – and I do agree with the general consensus that those issues should essentially be stricken from the record."

Kenternet Webmaster (KW) Kent Roberts explained that TGIKent.com would not be presenting any of the issues. "Forget they exist," said KW Roberts. "I already have."

KMS Roberts said that the new issue would recenter the selflication and study an important theme. "We're getting things back on track," he said. "And part of that is about Kent connecting with his old friends, since they want him to realize his purpose: spreading the word about Kentself on hills and also, perhaps more importantly, in dells."

"D" key malfunctioning

By Kent Roberts

Sometimes the "D" key on my laptop doesn't work when I turn it on. I need that key to type my password. So I restart the computer and hope the key works when it comes back on.

Update: I attached the keyboard from the desktop computer at Kent HQ to the laptop. Now it works.

Laundry situation

By Kent Roberts

I am now doing two different loads of laundry. The purchase of a pack of white undershirts necessitated a separate load to preserve them. To keep the loads separate, I put dirty white shirts on the shelf of a bookcase in my closet. I'm not sure why there's a bookcase in my closet, but it's helpful to laundry-sorting.

Fact & Fiction About Kent Roberts

Fact: Yesterday Kent Roberts' breakfast was two pieces of untoasted toast.

Fiction: Kent never stuffs two pieces of bread in his mouth and calls it breakfast.

Kentphorism:

“Try at all times not to be an asshole, because that way, some of the time you will succeed.”

backKent

Kentphorism:

“Treat children like adults, and treat some of them like adults who understand the tax code.”

 the only Kent Roberts publication backside that gives you an eerie sense that you're in a simulacrum **

Old friend comes to visit

By Kent Roberts

Kent Old Friend (KOF) Jordan Carlos recently visited Minneapolis. He was in town to perform comedy at the local comedy club¹. KOF Carlos invited self-publisher Kent Roberts to his room to help him videotape an audition for a sort of TV show.

Roberts was excited to participate in this process. “I went to college for acting, but I somehow have never really tried to act,” he said. “It’s inspiring to be around someone who actually moved his career forward.” Roberts looked at his feet and sighed deeply. This reporter abruptly exited the room.

Interview: Kent talks New Year’s resolutions

By Kent Roberts

Kent: So, how is it going with the nicotine gum? Are you just going to chew that forever? I thought you were going to stop.

Kent: I guess I am generally pleased that I was able to get off cigarettes, so the nicotine gum doesn’t bother me all that much.

Kent: You know, some people just chew the gum forever. There’s that one woman in that support group who has been chewing it for years. Will that be you?

I promise not to chew the gum for years.

Kent: No. I promise not to chew the gum for years. I am just having difficulty getting off it.

Kent: Are you prepared to make a New Year’s resolution for 2020 to get off the gum? Will you make that commitment?

Kent: Sure, that’s fine.

Kent: You sound a little blasé. Maybe take this a little more seriously: are you really committed to quitting?

Kent: Yes, I will quit for 2020. That’s a good resolution.

Kent: Are there any other resolutions you would like to share?

Kent: Yes... I resolve to start getting up at 7am and to start exercising more regularly. I resolve to work on writing or performance every day.

Kent: If I write down all these resolutions on a piece of paper, will you sign it?

Kent: Sure.

Kent: I’ll hold you to that.

Current bananarama not that gross

By Kent Roberts

I take bananas with me to eat as snacks when I work at the coffeeshop. The pocket on the driver’s-side door of my car typically has a few banana peels in it. It’s a little gross, but it’s not that gross because it’s so cold outside.